

Abstract

An arm support for use with an elongated object such as a fishing rod is disclosed herein. The arm support device includes an arm cradle that mounts above the handle of the elongated object. The arm cradle can be pivoted relative to the handle 5 about a pivot axis that is offset to either the left or right side of the handle.